Safety precautions for forest users during hunting season

Cookstown, July 6, 2006
 - Fall is a very enjoyable season for walkers, hikers, cyclists, horseback riders,

etc. to go out on trails, into the forests, and be physically active, while taking in the beautiful fall colours and scenery.

However, as fall coincides with hunting season, forest users are urged to take some common sense precautions, such as:

- Wear orange or other bright colours. Do not wear white, green, gray, brown, black or tan.

- Never walk alone, but if you do, let someone know where you are going, and when to expect you back.

- Do not wander off marked trails. Hunters are usually aware of the location of marked trails.

- When walking with a dog, protect them with bright collars, possibly with a bell. During hunting season keep them on a leash.

- If you see a hunter, alert the hunter of your presence.

- Be aware that hunting may also be allowed by the landowner on private land.

- Be aware of hunting times and seasons. Contact your local Ministry of Natural Resources, or the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters for this information.

Local tree farm helps out

Drysdale's Tree Farm held a very special event this past weekend for children who are battling cancer.

A Family Fun Day was held at the farm in conjunction with Camp Quality, a camp for children with cancer.

"The camp is strictly run by volunteers," said Doug Drysdale Sr.

Each child attends the camp for one week and is matched up with a companion. This Saturday, the kids, their families and companions were treated to horse drawn sleigh rides, face painting, a giant maze, train rides and a visit from Santa.

"This is the first time we held this event," said Drysdale, who adds his wife has been involved with Camp Quality for 15 years with the Bradford Tec WE group.

The guests were treated to pizza, hot dogs and french fries and the Drysdale's gave each family a wreath to kick start their holidays.
