709 IN MEMORIAM

FRIENDS
Friends, that's what we were. Highschool...cars...laughter... When I needed Serious side of him was what I found, He was a friend, better than all the rest, and most profound. My life was in tatters...he brought me joy and laughter. He treated me like family. He brought so much warmth to my heart. When I asked him, he was there. Always honest, always true, but kind and warm like a brother should be. Thank you for the honour of being your friend. Thank you for allowing me to share your family. Thank you for respecting me when I felt no one did. Thank you Vic... You are the best.

POEM

You've been gone away, a year today. I can't believe it, or know what to say. I never thought there would be a time, Where you would not be at my side I ask myself Where are you now? As if I didn't know You are in the wind, the sun, a candle's glow All around me just like before But now it is different, like waves on a shore Soothing and soft, a murmur, a touch The caresses I miss so much I know you are there But in a different light I hope and pray with all my might That you hear me day and night How much I love you and feel you near How you miss me too in all the things I see and hear Your message to me now is so clear We will again be together someday but not here Our souls will forever be entwined It is our destiny I love you now and always will Sadly missed, but never forgotten My darling Victor Love Carol
In memory of my darling and special guy who passed away a year ago today, I miss you so much, your soulmate and wife forever, Carol

WE REMEMBER HIM

By Clay
It is hard to imagine a year has gone by. He was the one, that special guy. He was one of those people some wished they could know. He was the one to say "just let it go" With talent and honour he did best what he knew. A wealth of knowledge and a friend true. For those who forced him away from his fame I can only hope they realize and hang their heads in shame. For now we can only remember his greatness, with hearts stirring and sorrow and sadness What could have been we'll never know. Respect and love from those who cared will always show. He's still around if you stop, look and listen. In the whisper of a sigh, a song, our hearts that miss him. He knows we love him and that we care. His spirit surrounds us, his essence still there. Take the time to reflect about someone or something each day. "I like it that way" is something he'd say.

709 IN MEMORIAM

WELL, IT'S WEDNESDAY
doncha know mist clears on a summer day hot weather, wet paint, be hell to pay sleep is needed but none will come we talk forever; await the sun waves lap up on a sea shelled beach next day's project just within reach a sphinx of Digbee, a pyramid of sand these are memories still at hand a someone who fixed my bike silently, just cuz a person who came when others would pause a tyrant? No. Gruff perhaps, set in his ways discouraged perennially; few hear what he says except some so fortunate, happened to be there a book tossed towards myself, explain it to me a smile, an internal nod. It is and shall be I struggle, despair...how is this done? a glance and a walk back; a big hammer- no gun WHACK! then is the moment for that he does wield knows what is right, knows the right feel a gun not for hire when others would tire a man of conviction my best friend a possible insight from one who would know a place set aside in peace; where something should grow always Victor Carl Lay 2nd August, 1957 - 16th March, 2006 no car is un-fixable; no goal unattainable
